the ssago saga continues...

After a long evening of pre-quest merriment, our 243 adventurers awoke with heavy heads. With food in their bellies, spirits high and adventure looming, they set out for the day.

Some of the knights headed to the exotic lands of Lancaster to the west. They had the morning to recover Pendragon's hidden jewels from Williamson Park. Teams were required to hunt for items, such as a book or ring, and take the silliest posed photo. Like every rally, any members who weren't on this quest were very confused when these mysterious and peculiar photos were posted online. The winning team is to be announced later today at the closing ceremony.

Knights of the not-so-round table

After the jewel hunt was over, the questers went their separate ways. There was a fantastic variety of quests for them to choose from. There was: Energi Trampolining, Clip N' Climb, Lakes Aquarium, brewery tour and pub crawl, pottery painting, geocaching, café crawl, watching the new film Fantastic Beasts: The Crimes of Grindelwald, visiting Windemere, another pub crawl, board games, castle tour and Escape Rooms.

Others headed out for the whole day. We had some visit Sandcastles Water Park, the UK's largest indoor waterpark. Rumour has it SSAGO members swim as well as mermaids! A group enjoyed Blackpool Zoo, and even saw a dragon.

Others simply spent the day exploring Blackpool.

We also had the most treacherous of explorers head out on long and short quests, hiking across mountains, past lakes and through the deep dark woods.

Our questers returned to base camp excited for a delicious roast boar (or alternative) to refuel them for the evening celebrations. And it did not disappoint! Then the ceilidh kicked off - although some chose to take part in a night hike instead. Although sweaty and warm, the ceilidh was enjoyed by all. After having some time to cool down, and enduring the manic of rearranging the tables, our knights had one last mental test: The Pub Quiz. Bitesize brownies rounded off a fantastic day ## hear ye! hear ye!

Joe the Quartermaster will be selling his many wares at 11 in 'a building'.

Pre-orders unfortunately unavailable due to manufacturer error ☹

ye olde joke section

An orc sat down at his favourite restaurant. "What would sir like," the goblin servant asked.

The orc scanned the menu. "I have never had pelican before. I will try that. What's the price please? It doesn't say."

The goblin smiled, "The bill for pelican is huge."

Who built the Round Table?

Sir Cumference

Witch? magazine: BROOMS

how much zoom for your broom?

I know what you're thinking: I need to upgrade my broom for next seasons Quidditch Cup. Well fear not as Witch? magazine is here with your guide to this autumn's best and worst brooms.

Nimbus 2001:****

Pitch side essential but household hindrance. A good update to the 2000 model but a bit pricey for what you get.

Wilko Functional:***

A good all-rounder and a nice transition from amateur to professional standard. This broom will sweep away your competition and leave them in your dust.

Firebolt:***** One fiery boi. You'll be the hottest player on the pitch. The aesthetics alone will make sparks fly amongst even the coldest of critics.

Aldi special

buy: ** A good entry level broom. Practical and reliable, this broom will get the job done. Though the steering is unsteady, we're sure it will sweep you off your feet.

fantasy riddles:

Answers: Riddle 1: Book
Riddle 2: Coin

I'm often held, yet rarely touched;
I'm always wet, yet never rust;
I'm sometimes wagged and
sometimes bit;
To use me well, you must have wit.
